LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear colleagues and friends,

In this so-called post truth era, there is an ever-increasing need for creating reliable knowledge and socially-responsible science. EURAM is pursuing this cause and actively collaborating with different institutions in that direction. In our 2017 Conference in Glasgow we will have two fantastic plenaries reflecting this perspective. In the first one we will address responsible research in business and management. In the second one we will focus on the changing political landscape in Europe. Besides these, there will also be many other thought provoking-activities organised by Strategic Interest Groups. Soon you will see the details on our webpage. I invite you to start preparations to join us in these inspiring and insightful events in June!

This year we have introduced new activities and awards to expand the role of EURAM in management research, education and practice. Our Vice President Research Yehuda Baruch together with our Strategic Interests Groups have introduced the EURAM Best Book Award. I would like to thank them all for this initiative! Please do not hesitate to nominate books that make outstanding contributions to the management discipline.

As we are championing responsible science and research we also look for ways of transferring this knowledge into practice. We are developing ideas to create sound links between academic work and practice that we hope to share with you during EURAM 2017 Conference in Glasgow.

This year we will have several elections. The first one is the election for the President Elect of EURAM. In the next few weeks, you will receive information about the candidates and will be able to vote for the next EURAM President. We will also elect national representatives for Brazil, Canada, Greece, Ireland, Japan, Switzerland and Turkey.

You are most welcome to volunteer for these positions or nominate a colleague and express your voice.

EURAM Book Award

EURAM leadership has decided to introduce a "Best Book of the Year" EURAM Award. This award will be accompanied with a cash prize of €2500. The award will be granted annually to a scholarly authored book in the general field of management studies (single or multiple authored). Only scholarly books/monographs (not edited books or textbooks) may be nominated. The language of the book should be English (in the future we hope to extend this to more languages). Date of publication must be the last year before the conference (for 2017: books with 2016 as year of publication). All fields of management are included.

A nomination for a book can be made either by any SIG, or by any individual, including self-nominations. At least one of the authors of the nominated book should be either a current member of EURAM or become a member in order to accept the Award.

There is no formal nomination form, but the document should be no longer than 600 words (plus a short cover letter).

Nominations should be submitted to VP Research via email (y.baruch@soton.ac.uk) by end of February. A designated committee will choose the winner, based on the criteria of scholarly impact – rigor and relevance of the book – with consideration for the 'European' element of the book.

The winner(s) will be announced at the EURAM Conference.

EURAM 2016 PAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE AMERICAN REVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Giacomo Manetti, Marco Bellucci and Luca Bagnoli (University of Florence) have recently published an article in the The American Review of Public Administration. The study, presented at EURAM 2016 in Paris, analyzes the use of social media, in particular Facebook and Twitter, by a sample of Canadian and American public transport agencies as mechanisms of public information and stakeholder engagement. Through a quantitative content analysis of the contents published by these agencies, the study suggests that a broader use of these mechanisms can create new opportunities to improve transparency and, indirectly, also the quality of the services offered by agencies.

CEEMAN RESEARCH “MANAGEMENT AND LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT NEEDS IN DYNAMICALLY CHANGING SOCIETIES”

The goal of the research project is to strengthen cooperation between management schools and business, to get insights, ranging from current and future business challenges, management and leadership skills and knowledge for students and graduates, to the missing links between management education and the corporate world. Preliminary findings show that the main challenges and the main constants of the business today are transformation and change on one side and needs for innovative business models on the other. The research findings will be presented and published in a book that will feature country-specific reports as well as a cross-country report and recommendations on how to better align educational offerings to the needs of companies and be more relevant.

CALL FOR PAPERS: BRQ SPECIAL ISSUE ON “TALENT MANAGEMENT: QUO VADIS”

The literature on talent management has been growing continuously, though to some in a somewhat haphazard way. The result is a somewhat fragmented body of knowledge which remains imprecise and characterised by a rather vague, and at the same time, appealing rhetoric. Arising from this, there have been calls for a more significant degree of critical scrutiny of the phenomenon in order that we might more fully evaluate its true value from a science-practice perspective.

We invite manuscripts which critically reflect on what has been accomplished. In adopting a more critical perspective, it is important to identify alternative approaches that can help us to understand the phenomena in question.

Guest editors:

Michael J Morley, University of Limerick; Mireia Valverde, Universitat Rovira i Virgili; Elaine Farndale, Penn State University/ Tilburg University

Deadline: August 30th, 2017.

CALL FOR PAPERS AFRICA ACADEMY OF MANAGEMENT – 4TH BIENNIAL CONFERENCE – JANUARY 3-6, 2018

Conference Theme: Building High-Performing Organizations in Africa

Current reports on Africa indicate that the continent is one of the fastest growing regions of the world, second to East Asia. In fact, of the ten fastest growing economies in the world, six are located in Africa. To sustain the performance of African economies, it is important that African organizations, for-profit and non-profit, compete not only in Africa but also globally. For management research to be relevant and impactful, it must look at what really happens within African organizations, how African organizations achieve high performance and what makes a high-performing African organization.

CONFERENCE ON “CORPORATE POWER AND CORPORATE GOVERNANCE: BALANCING VALUE CREATION WITH STAKEHOLDER ACCOUNTABILITY

Luiss University and Business School, September 2nd & 3rd, 2017

ICGS invites you to submit a research or a symposium proposal that advances our understanding of the antecedents and outcomes of corporate governance systems and practices. The proposal should not exceed 10 single-spaced pages in length or 3,000 words. Proposals can be submitted by midnight (EST) on April 1, 2017. The Harold S. Geneen Institute of Corporate Governance sponsors a best paper award of $1,500. More info available at the conference website: <http://businessschool.luiss.it/ICGS-3rd-Annual-Conference/>

Hello from Glasgow!

The paper submission deadline has passed and we have entered the phase in the preparations where all papers are being reviewed. Thank you for submitting your papers and also thank you very much to all the reviewers who are now scrutinising all these submissions. No academic conference can be held without people volunteering for jobs like this. I am hoping for many critical but constructive reviews.

I am very happy to be able to tell you that we have finalised plenary panel no.2. In the previous newsletter, I was able to tell you that for panel no.1 for the Wednesday afternoon (21st June), we will have panellists Mats Alvesson, Stewart Clegg, and Anne Tsui discussing 'The Future of Management Education in Europe' with the EURAM community.

For panel no.2, which is scheduled for the Friday afternoon (23rd June), we will be debating "The Changing European Political Landscape". I feel that this subject almost does not need any introduction, as there is so much going on in Europe and the wider world. We are very excited that we have a very distinguished panel of Martine Durand, Markku Markkula, John Curtice and Richard Higgott to start us of.

Martine Durand is the Director of Statistics and Chief Statistician of the OECD. She is responsible for providing strategic orientation for the Organisation's statistical policy and oversees all of OECD's statistical activities. She is in particular responsible for the Organisation's work on the measurement of people's well-being and societal progress, promoting the analysis and use of well-being and sustainability indicators for policy-making.

Markku Markkula was elected President of the European Committee of the Regions (CoR) in February 2015 for a two and a half year term of office. Since joining the CoR in 2010 he has held several influential positions such as the first Vice-Chair of the CoR's EPP Group and Chair of the CoR's EPP Task Force on Europe 2020. He was the CoR's rapporteur in the field of innovation for subjects including: "The digital agenda for Europe", "The role of local and regional authorities in achieving the objectives of the Europe 2020 strategy", "Enhancing and focusing EU international cooperation in research and innovation", "Horizon 2020", "Better governance for the single market", "Closing the innovation divide", "Creation of high-tech start-up ecosystems", and "The industrial policy package".

Richard Higgott is Research Professor at the Institute of European Studies and Distinguished Professor of Diplomacy at Vesalius College at the Vrije Universiteit Brussel. He is also Emeritus Professor of International Political Economy at the University of Warwick. He has been Professor (International Politics and Public Policy) and Director of Graduate Studies in Foreign Affairs and Trade at the Australian National University and Professor of Government at the University of Manchester before moving to Warwick where he founded and directed the Centre for Globalisation and Regionalisation between 1996-2007.

John Curtice is Professor of Politics at the University of Strathclyde, who is well known for his research into voter behaviour at elections, and the premier public commentator on the Scottish and Euro issues in Scotland.

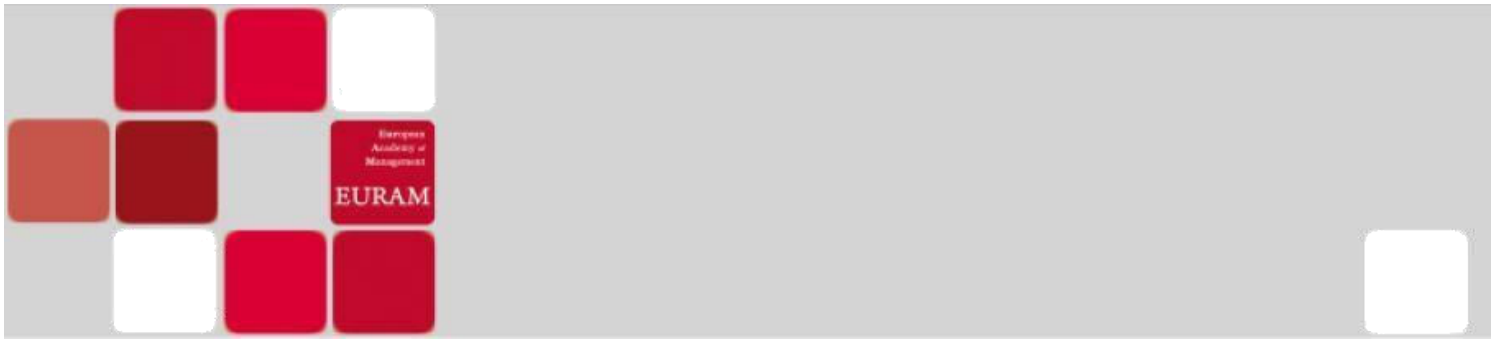

Finally, we have secured a wonderful venue for the EURAM welcome reception. We will be hosted by Glasgow City Council in the Glasgow City Chambers on George Square. This is a wonderfully ornate and iconic Victorian building, just yards / meters away from the University of Strathclyde campus. The EURAM welcome reception will be held on Tuesday early evening (20th June), ahead of the main conference.
